With many levels of hob formwork to complete on this apartment project, the formwork contractor wasn't spending unnecessary time on site by traditionally forming up their hob framing.

In the customer's own words, 'It's a really simple system that saves heaps of time.'

By using just two workers to pin the pre-formed hobs to the concrete and fix the reo bars, it not only made the process easier on site, it was much faster, smarter and more economical.

Additional time was saved by filling the hobs with structural grout instead of coming back to top-up.

'We always use the Smart Hob - they are so much faster.'
